

CHESS GOSSIP.

One of the reputed origins of chess is that it was expressly invented for the purpose of teaching a youthful despot that a king, after all, although of course the most important personage in the realm, is still able to effect little or nothing without the assistance and support of his subjects.

If chess at the outset served as a lesson and also as an opportunity of communication between great personages and those below them, it has subsequently not less frequently answered the same purposes of introduction.

Ferdinand and Miranda's game, in the Tempest, had much the same sort of character, with the pleasant difference, however, of love making in person instead of by proxy.

Miranda. Sweet lord, you play me false. Ferdinand. No, my dearest love, I would not for the world.

A similar desire for semi-official tele-actes with gentlemen attached to her court might be one reason of Queen Elizabeth's fondness for chess.

Chess is supposed to be an imitation of war. Phenologists tell us that the faculty denoted by the organ of Locality gives what is called coup d'œil, and judgment of the capabilities of ground.

It is necessary to the military draughtsman, and is of great importance to a general. Dr. Gall mentions that he had observed the organ large in distinguished chess-players; and he conceived their talent to consist in the faculty of clearly mastering a great number of possible positions of the men.

The squares of the chessboard, amounting to sixty-four, constitute a very remarkable number. It is not divisible by any number, but is divisible by two and by four.

Chess has been played on a regular scale, with living men, in appropriate costume, on a natural fighting-ground—a lawn converted into a chess-board by paring the grass for the squares of white, or on a floor prepared for the purpose.

At checked, contempt on "I perceive now that every tool will have his favor." The consequence was that Sir Charles challenged him. They fought in Marybone Park, where Essex was disarmed and wounded in the thigh.

In Western Europe the game of chess is played by two adversaries only, and never, like dominoes, cribbage, and some other games, by one against one or by two partners against two, at pleasure.

The third, and the most ingenious, was published by Euler, the celebrated mathematician, in 1766. It is performed as follows:

The knight's problem consists in making him move to every one of the squares of the chessboard without alighting on the same square twice. Two thousand years ago the Brahmins had a way of doing it, which they seem to have kept a secret known only to their own caste.

PROPOSALS.

ANTHRACITE COAL FOR THE NAVY. BUREAU OF EQUIPMENT AND RECRUITING. Sealed Proposals for furnishing Anthracite Coal for the Navy to be delivered during the balance of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1866.

The coal must be of the best Buck Mountain or Black Lick, or of a kind equal to them in all respects for the purposes intended, which equality will be determined by a Board appointed by the Secretary of the Navy after the reception of the bids.

The name of the coal proposed to be furnished must be stated in the offer.

It is to be delivered in lumps of suitable size for naval steamers, clean, of uniform quality, selected free from impurities, unbranded, of which the contractor will be required to furnish such evidence as will be satisfactory, and be subject to such inspection as to quality and quantity as the Department may direct.

The coal is to be delivered on board vessels, at such place in the port of New York as may be designated by the Bureau, and in such quantities and at such times as the Bureau may require, and the contractor is to be held responsible for the same.

The price to be paid for the coal delivered on board vessels, and the conditions above stated, at the contract price, and expense, and without extra charge of any kind.

The offer, as required by law, must be accompanied by a written guarantee, signed by two or more responsible persons, to the effect that they understand that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their bid is accepted, be bound to furnish, within ten days after the date of the award, such evidence as may be prescribed by the Bureau, which shall be sufficient securities to furnish the supplies proposed.

Any demurrage or other charges to which the Navy Department may be subjected from delay in the performance of the contract, shall be paid by the contractor, and shall be deducted from their bill.
